

SOHM, Inc., Executes Non-Toxic Funding Commitment with Institutional Investor for Expansion of Core Business to Adopt Blockchain Technologies

Chino Hills, CA—January 19, 2018 – SOHM, Inc. (PINKSHEETS: SHMN) a globally-known generic pharmaceutical manufacturer, announces today that it has signed a binding Letter of Intent with a Canadian Institutional Investor for a sizable investment in SOHM. The proposed, non-toxic investment, is intended to further the Company’s core business model with a view to adopt blockchain technologies and the cryptocurrency markets; in particular, crypto mining and creating a synergistic token for the Company’s products and future services.

The Company previously announced it would explore those technology opportunities that would further SOHM’s value proposition. Management is confident that by incorporating blockchain technologies with its core business, SOHM will create a competitive advantage in the field of nutraceuticals. This will also afford the Company an ability to introduce new cosmeceutical and pharmaceutical products to the market.

Moreover, the introduction of blockchain technologies will support SOHM, if suitable, in pursuing a Token Generating Event (an Initial Coin Offering (ICO)) relative to the core business. In addition, the investment allows for crypto mining and other cryptocurrency endeavors.

A spokesperson for SOHM, Inc., said, “SOHM is very pleased to have the possibility of this investment for stability, expansion, growth and the development of those Blockchain technologies that should greatly improve shareholder confidence and Company advancement.”
